

As a co-author with William Alpert and Oskar Harmon of “A Randomized Assessment of Online Learning”, Kenneth Couch works at the university where this study was conducted. Professor Couch received no additional compensation for the research contained in this paper from any party. IRB approval was received for this study from the university where it was conducted.