

Disclosure statement: Julia Coronado

I received no financial support for my work on this article. I am the owner of a consulting firm that engages in macroeconomic research on behalf of clients in the financial services industry. I also serve on the Board of MTGE Corporation, a mortgage REIT. I serve on the Board of Directors of the National Association of Business Economics. No party had any right to review this article prior to publication.