Financial Disclosure Statement for Price V. Fishback

Article in the Journal of Economic Perspectives titled "The Rise of American Minimum Wages, 1912-1968," by Price V. Fishback and Andrew J. Seltzer.

I did not receive specific financial support for the research performed for this article. As far as I know, I have not received funding of any sort from any interested parties. Over the past three years I have been employed as a Professor at the University of Arizona Economics Department and have received funds for salary and research from the Thomas R. Brown Professorship through June 30, 2019 and then the APS Professorship through the University of Arizona Foundation. During that period in researching other projects, I used research funds from National Science Foundation Grant SES-135744, the Economic History Association, and the Hoover Institution, as well as funds for speakers and research from the Koch Foundation. I also was the dissertation advisor for NSF dissertation grants NSF-1658749 and NSF-1629321.
