

Disclosure Statement for Submission to the American Economic Review
“The (Lack of) Anticipatory Effects of the Social Safety Net on Human Capital Investment”

Manasi Deshpande

1. This material is based upon work supported by J-PAL North America, Spencer Foundation, Russell Sage Foundation, National Science Foundation, National Institutes of Health, Social Security Administration, Ronzetti Initiative for the Study of Labor Markets, and Rehabilitation Research Training Center. I received compensation from the Social Security Administration as a part-time employee, a position that allows me to access SSA data (which was necessary for this project).
2. I received no other significant financial support from an interested party.
3. I have been a part-time employee of the Social Security Administration since January 2021. Prior to that, I had an Intergovernmental Personnel Agreement with SSA (2016 – Sept 2020). The purpose of these positions is to provide access to SSA administrative data for research purposes, and they provide modest compensation.
4. I have nothing to disclose for close relatives or partners.
5. The Social Security Administration requires that all manuscripts using confidential SSA data be reviewed for disclosure avoidance. SSA reviewed this paper per this requirement.

The University of Chicago Institutional Review Board reviewed and approved this project.
