

Disclosure statement

Charles Rafkin declares that he has no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in the paper, “The Welfare Effects of Eligibility Expansions: Theory and Evidence from SNAP.” The observational analysis uses data that is not subject to human subjects review. The experiment received exempt status from Harvard IRB and MIT Committee on the Use of Humans as Experimental Subjects.