

Disclosure Statement: David Lyle

“The Impact of Disability Benefits on Labor Supply:
Evidence from the VA’s Disability Compensation Program”

April 11, 2015

1. Sources of financial support for the research. At the direction of senior Army leaders, the Office of Economic and Manpower Analysis funded the merging of Department of the Army data with data from the Social Security Administration.

2. Each interested party from whom he or she has received significant financial support, summing to at least $10,000 in the past three years, in the form of consultant fees, retainers, grants and the like. I have received no financial support.

3. Each author should disclose any paid or unpaid positions as officer, director, or board member of relevant non-profit organizations or profit-making entities. A “relevant” organization is one whose policy positions, goals, or financial interests relate to the article.

a. Lieutenant Colonel, United States Army

b. Director, Office of Economic and Manpower Analysis, West Point, NY.

c. Associate Professor, Department of Social Sciences, West Point, NY.

4. Each author must disclose if another party had the right to review the paper prior to its circulation. The U.S. Army Public Affairs Office reviewed the paper and authorized release as long as the following text appeared on the front cover of the paper: The views expressed herein are our own and do not purport to reflect the position of the U.S. Military Academy, the Department of the Army, or the Department of Defense.

David S. Lyle

Lieutenant Colonel, U.S. Army

Office of Economic and Manpower Analysis