Disclosure Statement:

The author declares that she has no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper.

- (1) Every submitted article should state sources of financial support for the particular research it describes. If none, that fact should be stated.

National Science Foundation (grant SES-0752792), the US Department of Labor ILAB (DOL ILAB), the Centre for Microfinance (CMF) at IFMR, the Mossavar- Rahmani Center for Business and Government, the Real Estate Academic Initiative at Harvard University and the Exxon Mobil Foundation under the Closing the Global Gender Gap Initiative in Economic Participation (hosted by the Women and Public Policy Program at Harvard University)

- (2) Each author of a submitted article should identify each interested party from whom she has received significant financial support, summing to at least $10,000 in the past three years, in the form of consultant fees, retainers, grants and the like. The disclosure requirement also includes in-kind support, such as providing access to data. If the support in question comes with a non-disclosure obligation, that fact should be stated, along with as much information as the obligation permits. If there are no such sources of funds, that fact should be stated explicitly. An "interested" party is any individual, group, or organization that has a financial, ideological, or political stake related to the article.

Pande is an affiliate of the Jameel Poverty Action Lab whose mission statement is the use of scientific evidence for poverty alleviation.
