

When Discounts Raise Costs: The Effect of Copay Coupons on Generic Utilization
Disclosure Statement: Matt Schmitt

August 23, 2016

To whom it may concern:

Below are disclosure notifications for the paper referenced above which has been accepted for publication in the American Economic Journal: Economic Policy. These answers below respond to the five specific numbered questions contained in the American Economic Association disclosure policy document.

1. I did not receive any financial support for my work on the paper referenced above.
2. I have not received any financial support in the past three years from a party that would have a financial, ideological, or political stake in the paper referenced above.
3. I am not an officer, director, or board member in a profit or non-profit organization that has a relevant relationship to the contents of the article referenced above.
4. None of my close relatives have received any financial support for my work on the paper referenced above. None of my close relatives have received any financial support in the past three years from a party that would have a financial, ideological, or political stake in the paper referenced above. None of my close relatives are an officer, director, or board member in a profit or non-profit organization that has a relevant relationship to the contents of the article referenced above.
5. The Federal Trade Commission had the right to review this paper because we used IMS data obtained from the Federal Trade Commission, and they needed to review the analysis to ensure that no confidential information was disclosed.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Matt Schmitt', with a stylized, cursive script.

Matt Schmitt