Re: Disclosure for “The Cost of Reducing Greenhouse Gas Emissions” (with Kenneth Gillingham)

There are no sources of financial support for this paper. I have received no consultant fees or retainers from any interested parties related to this research. I am a member of the Climate Advisory Committee of Vulcan Philanthropy, a nonprofit institution that conducts research and engagement in climate policy, and have received less than $10,000 for that service over the past three years. I have no close relatives or partners for which there are relevant disclosures. No other parties have the right to review this article prior to publication, although it was circulated to scholars in the field for their comments.

Sincerely,
