

Disclosure Statement for Justine Hastings - The Effect of SNAP on the Composition of Purchased Foods: Evidence and Implications

Hastings serves as the president of Research Improving People's Lives (RIPL), a 501(c)3 research institute whose mission is to use data and science to improve lives. She has served on the Academic Research Council of the United States Federal Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. Hastings has conducted other research using data provided by the anonymous retailer; this research is described here. She is a scholar visiting Amazon during the 2018-2020 academic year. Hastings has been compensated for writing for the Brookings Institution.