“What Does a Provider Network Do?
Evidence from Random Assignment in Medicaid Managed Care”

By Jacob Wallace

I gratefully acknowledge funding support from the National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship (Grant No. DGE 1144152). I obtained approval for the acquisition and use of the data from the Harvard IRB while a student at Harvard.

In addition to the direct funding for this research described above, I received in excess of $10,000 from Nuna Health, Inc. a healthcare data analytics company where I worked as a full-time employee during the period 2016-2017. I also received (or have been awarded) grant funding in excess of $10,000 from Arnold Ventures, the National Institutes of Health, the Commonwealth Foundation, and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. My wife, Julia Smith, has received in excess of $10,000 from her current employer Aurrera Health Group, and former employers, Manatt Health and Hartford Healthcare, three companies with healthcare interests.

My data use agreement with the New York State Department of Health requires that I submit my work for review prior to publication ``to ensure there is no disclosure of individuals' identities and that, to the extent mutually agreed, all data presented has been accurately portrayed in the findings."
